Work Experience

I have over 15 years experience working with the Voluntary Sector in the field of training, research, evaluation and organisational development. In recent years I have specialised in Training Trainers and literacies research and development. Additionally I have been involved in facilitating forward planning, and project development events, conducting training needs analysis and preparing business and development plans. I have also carried out detailed community consultation research and project monitoring and evaluation. Recent Commissions have included:

- Working as part of the team that reviewed and updated the Scottish Credit and Qualifications Framework Handbook.
- Evaluation and development of the Community of Practice for Adult Literacies.
- Evaluation and development of the Professional Development Award: Developing Literacies Learning Programmes for the Workplace
- Developing and delivering the Management Committee Recruitment Programme for Glasgow Council for the Voluntary Sector
- Management Committee induction training and development.
